Instructions for Regathering game “What’s Changed?”

Participants sit in a circle. One person is selected to begin the game. That person goes out of view (around a corner or another room) and changes something about their appearance, i.e. folds or unfolds a sleeve, takes off a sock, takes a ribbon out of their hair, changes the part in their hair. They come back into the circle and in order, the rest of the participants guess what has changed. The person who guesses correctly then goes out and repeats the process. If no one guesses after a determined number of guesses the person tells what was changed and picks someone to go out of view. Game continues until it is time for picking up the elements for Eucharist.
